TECHNICAL BULLETIN - MARCH 2002

226. CE Marks

Every now and again the matter of CE marking of fairground equipment comes up. So, for instance, we hear of instances of ride manufacturers quoting CE certification.

Rides, apart from certain items of electrical equipment (to which the Electromagnetic Compatibility Directive may have relevance), should not bear CE marking. Fairground equipment was specifically excluded from the Machinery Directive and, consequently, need not (indeed, should not) be marked.
