Bungee swing type ride incident

A report has been received of an incident on a bungee swing type ride at a French fairground in April. A female rider came loose from her harness on the Adrenaline Extreme ride and ended up dangling upside down by her feet as she swung back and forth.

The incident was captured on video and the woman is seen falling out of her straps almost immediately after the swing begins. She swings several times while upside down, with her head coming very close to the platform below. Ride operators were finally able to stop her swinging and free her. The incident took place at the Foire du Trône, Thorne Fair, in Paris.

The Adrenaline ride is not connected in any way to Skycoaster or Ride Entertainment in the US who manufacturer and supply respectively the original Skycoaster attraction.
