Tower ride cable failure

An incident is reported to have taken place at Chennai's Queensland Amusement Pak in China involving a tower style ride. The device, named Free Fall, features two passenger carriers on either side of a central tower section, each holding up to 12 riders. These move up and down the tower.

The report received states that the cables holding one of the carriers snapped during operation, resulting in the carrier falling to the ground from a height of 10ft. No injuries were reported.
