Ejection from Miami-style ride

NAFLIC has received a report of a number of riders being ejected from a Miami-style ride in Thailand following the failure of a safety bar.

The incident took place at a theme park in Lopburi, central Thailand. Shortly after the ride started the metal lap bar came up, resulting in the riders coming out of their seats and falling onto the platform below. Apparently nobody was killed or seriously injured in the incident. The make of the device is unknown.
